SSAC FAQ

1 What is club hockey?

AA club hockey is the most competitive level for elite players. At the Bantam level, the club is currently comprised of 3 Bantam AA teams and 1 Bantam AAA team. At Bantam AAA, the team composition will primarily but not exclusively be 14 year-olds with some 13 year-olds while Bantam AA teams will likely be comprised of a relatively but not necessarily equal mixture of 13 and 14 year-olds.

2 What is the season long commitment?

Player and parent commitment are outlined by the head coach at the first team meeting after player selection. In general, there is a much higher commitment level compared to community hockey.

3 What does the tryout process involve?

Tryouts this fall will be August 26-31. After about 3 sessions, the Bantam AAA coach will select up to 40 players for further evaluation. The remaining players will continue their tryout for Bantam AA.

4 What should players be prepared for at the tryouts?

Players should come to the tryouts in shape and ready to play. These sessions will largely be comprised of scrimmages which will provide players as much opportunity as possible to show their skating and playing abilities.

5 What is the schedule?

The Bantam AAA team will play approximately 30 league games while averaging 3 practices per week. The Bantam AA teams will play about 30 games while averaging 2 practices per week. League schedules and practices are generally set for the entire season in advance. Tournament play is determined by team consensus under the direction of the coaching staff and manager.

6 What is the structure of SSAC?

Founded in 1963, the roots of the club go back indirectly to 1937 through various parent organizations that evolved into the South Side Athletic Club. A 19 member board oversees the appointing of coaches, directors and committees. There will be 9 teams in Bantam AA/AAA, Minor Midget 15 AAA and Midget AA/AAA this season.

7 What is the club directive on ice time?

Unlike community hockey, each team's mandate will be to develop players through "fair" ice time as determined by the coaching staff. Considerations are usually player attitude, contribution, effort, discipline and other factors.

8 What equipment does the club provide?

Incoming players in Bantam will be provided with a track suit (jacket and pants), team socks and a SSAC logo patch sewn onto the pants. Other sports apparel are available for purchase from the equipment director.
